

HANDY HINT

Roads are very busy and dangerous.
That's why you must always hold a grown-up's hand.

You know that, but sometimes grown-ups forget. To help them remember, trace around your hand and colour it in any way you want to.

Take your picture home and get a grown-up to trace around their hand too.
You can colour that in and when you've finished, it will look like you're both holding hands.

One last thing and then your picture's ready. Decide who you'd like to give the picture to – maybe the person who takes you to school every day and then write their name on the line.

Dear _____

Always remember to hold my hand tightly when we go out.

Teacher's Note: As this activity encourages interaction with an adult at home, it would be suitable for the Communication part of the curriculum.
